

Students with Disabilities: A Successful Transition from High School to College

Hosted by The Greater Anaheim SELPA, in partnership with Cypress College Disability Support Services

Join us to learn about what's in store for students with disabilities after they exit high school and head off to a community college. Cypress College DSS wants your student to experience a successful transition from high school to college. An essential part of this success is understanding the significant differences between high school and college, what to expect in college, and the roles parents and educators play in preparing their students for the new academic environment.
